CITY GOING AFTER WATER CO. WITH SHARP STICK

Aldermen are Hopeful of Being Able to Get a Chance to Attack the Franchise Successfully.

SUIT FOR REFUND OF OVERCHARGES PLANNED

If the city council can get half a chance to do it, the Water company's franchise will be smashed to splinters. The temper of the council toward the company was manifested with unmistakable plainness last night, when the corporation was denounced as grasping and arrogant, and City Attorney Thomas N. Wilkerson was instructed to study some form of legal action under which the company can be compelled to refund to consumers the overcharges of which it stands convicted under a recent decision of the supreme court.
General complaint has been made of the company's rule demanding a separate minimum monthly payment for every structure on a consumer's premises receiving water. Councilmen Ivan Grunfeld and George C. Scheer said last night that the people expected the council to do something to protect them. That the council should act to compel a refund of the excess charges is also the general feeling, the councilmen stated.
City Attorney Wilkerson said "that consumers would have to sue to recover overcharges paid within the past four years. He was inclined to believe that only one suit would be necessary, because the company, rather than face the possibility of costs in a string of separate actions, would probably refund on demand after one action had established a precedent.
He suggested that members of the council might start suit privately, but Councilman Grunfeld said the people expected the council to act officially, and the other members agreed with him.
"Something certainly should be done," said Alderman Scheer, and then he made this significant statement:
"If we win a couple more of these suits, I think we can successfully attack their franchise."
That franchise is built on the same plan as the Sherman law," said City Attorney Wilkerson. "It is so wide open you can drive a team through it. Pretty much every section needs judicial interpretation."
Reference was made to the fact that the supreme court decision established the point that the rules of the company had no standing in court unless they were approved by the city council, and Mr. Wilkerson made this interesting contribution to the discussion:
"I haven't been able to find anything on the records to show that a single rule of the company has ever been approved by the council."
Mr. Wilkerson is to report on the best line of action to take against the company at the next meeting. It has been suggested that council arrange to have all consumers assign their claims for overcharges, and instruct the city attorney to bring a general suit.

TRACTION COMPANY MUST REPAIR STREET
Franchise forfeiture was threatened for the traction company also. The company's slowness in the matter of repairs to the roadway at Second street and Central avenue was the subject of caustic comment from Alderman Scheer.
City Attorney Wilkerson told the council that something would have to be done about that point. The street was in such condition, he said, that a pedestrian might trip and break a leg or sustain such other injury as would make the city liable to damages up to $5,000.
"If they don't repair the streets, they forfeit their franchise," said Mr. Scheer. "We have the power to make them act, and we should exert it. I move that the city attorney be instructed to notify the Traction company to repair streets wherever necessary, and that he have power to sue in the event of their failure to make such repairs."
The resolution was carried unanimously.

WILKERSON HAS PLAN FOR CITY HALL FUND
There was a general discussion of the problem of financing the completion of the city hall. City Attorney Wilkerson informed council that he had studied out what might prove to be a legal way to acquire the money. He would not give it as his opinion, finally that the plan was without a legal flaw, but offhand he would say that it might work.
His plan is to have the council pass a resolution promising to lease the city hall to anyone who will advance money and to sub-lease from the lender at a rate sufficient to repay him out of the building fund and the money saved from rentals now paid out for temporary quarters. By that plan it is hoped to get around the "sale" of the city hall, which was declared illegal when the Marron & Wood plan was passed upon by the supreme court.
No action on the city hall was taken. Chairman Ivan Grunfeld of the hall committee said that his committee would take up no plan until it had had an opportunity to study the full text of the supreme court decision. The committee hasn't had a chance yet to learn just how far the decision limits it in seeking money.
